BROKEN HILL

The Nationals have been held all over Australia, from large coastal cities to country towns to the nation's capital. But there's never been a Nats held in the true outback, where these cars proved their ruggedness and durability. The town of Broken Hill is a town on most people's bucket-list, being such an Australian Icon. In fact it is the first place in the country where the entire town has a National Heritage Listing.

Broken Hill is famous for its 130 year mining history. The town is the home of the Royal Flying Doctor Service, and the backdrop to Mad Max, Wake In Fright, and of course Priscilla Queen of the Desert. There are incredible landscapes, museums, Outback Astronomy... there are no shortage of attractions to suit all ages.

Distance to Broken Hill:

- Adelaide 512km
- Melbourne 835km

Vehicles are classified into the following categories:

- Stock (or Authentic: Original or Restored)
- Street (vehicles with mild modification/modernisation)
- Modified (for significantly modified or customised vehicles).

Further detail and assistance on choosing an appropriate category is available on the website. All vehicle entrants will nominate their vehicle's class, and can choose to "opt out" of official judging if they wish.

The FE-FC Holden Nationals

The Nationals have been running for over twenty years. From its humble beginnings as a "Tri-State Run" for the NSW, Victorian and South Australian FE-FC Holden Car Clubs, it has grown to encompass clubs from all over Australia. Such is the strength of the FE-FC Holden movement, FE-FC Holden Clubs now exist in Queensland and Western Australia, and clubs catering to a wider model range from ACT and Tasmania also participate.

The event has continued to grow over that time, with the largest event staged so far being the last time NSW hosted the event. That was in Orange in 2010, with over 160 entrants.
